

BACHELOR OF HUMAN SERVICES AND RESOURCES

The Bachelor of Human Services and Resources (BHSR) degree is designed for mid-career working adults who wish to prepare themselves for a variety of careers in human services and resources, including, but not limited to, human resources management, management of charitable organizations, counseling, customer relations, public relations, social work, government service, hospitality industry service, law enforcement, and health care delivery and management. The degree provides preparation for anyone who intends to pursue a career in any service business or industry. The BHSR degree also provides a background for graduate study in business, psychology, theology, social work, library science, counseling, and other related service oriented fields.

The BHSR degree consists of the following components:

General Education (39 semester hours) - courses in communications, humanities, fine arts, social and behavioral sciences, natural sciences, and mathematics that are common in all university degree programs. These are viewed as being the liberal arts component of a degree and are foundational to the upper division courses.

HSR Core (39 semester hours) - courses in business, management, marketing, computer information systems, psychology, and sociology.

HSR Electives (21 semester hours) - courses that permit a student to take additional work in the specialized areas of business, psychology, and sociology in which they are particularly interested and which will be applicable to the careers they are pursuing or intend to pursue.

General Electives (21 semester hours) - courses that permit a student to take additional work in other subjects that interest them and that will be helpful in certain HSR careers. For example, an individual planning to be a counselor on a church staff might take electives in religion. An individual planning to run a business designed to help companies and other organizations plan and maintain web sites might take several electives in computer information systems.
